MESSAGE OF THE MAYOR

RECOMMENDING

APPROPRIATIONS AND TAX ORDERS FOR THE FINANCIAL YEAR 1927.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
BOSTON, April 18, 1927.

To the City Council:

GENTLEMEN,— I submit herewith my budget recommendations for the City of Boston for the fiscal year 1927 in full segregated form, in substitution for the lump sum recommendations submitted on January 28, 1927.

Last year the statutory tax limit for general municipal purposes was fixed by the Legislature at $14 per thousand. This year, after an intensive survey and study of the estimates submitted by department heads and after reducing these estimates by approximately $2,000,000, I requested that the Legislature fix for this year a tax limit of $13.50 per one thousand dollars. After a series of hearings on my request, the Legislative Committee on Municipal Finance unanimously recommended that the tax limit for this year be fixed at $13 per thousand. This recommendation is now law and the budget herewith submitted is based on a tax limit of $13 per thousand. The reduction of fifty cents in the limit made by the committee has made necessary a further reduction in departmental estimates of approximately $900,000, so that the budget for municipal purposes as here submitted represents a total reduction of approximately $2,900,000 from the original estimates submitted by department heads.

In reducing departmental estimates by such a large amount, it has been necessary to curtail, and in some cases eliminate, services to which the citizens of this community are reasonably entitled. In my opinion, however, it is wiser to follow this policy than to adopt a radical and unsound method of financing which would give an advantage but for one year and thereafter seriously impair the financial standing of the city.

This budget is the twelfth of its kind to be submitted since the adoption of the segregated budget plan. In point of time, it is the latest of the entire series to be submitted to the Council, but it is submitted at the earliest moment possible under the law, which is chapter 243 of the Acts of 1927, effective only last Monday.

Under the provisions of chapter 320 of the Acts of 1889, departments may spend, prior to the passage of the budget, "one-third the entire amount appropriated for the department for the previous year." With one third of the year practically over many departments are now at the point where their expenditures must cease. It is, therefore, desirable that the budget receive immediate consideration by your honorable body and I respectfully recommend its adoption.

Respectfully,

MALCOLM E. NICHOLS,

REPORT OF STANDARDIZATION COMMITTEE.

BOSTON, April 1, 1927.

HON. MALCOLM E. NICHOLS,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,— Under date of April 3, 1926, the undersigned were appointed by your Honor as a committee “to make a survey of the personal service rendered to the city.” In the months which have elapsed, the committee has endeavored, in accordance with your expressed wish, to ascertain “the character and duties of the various positions in the city,” and to determine “just and equitable salary schedules.”

The committee has met as a whole twenty-five times. In addition, sub-committees have given consideration to particular groups and independent investigations by individual members have been carried on. Conferences and consultations have been held with the heads of twenty-five city departments, while representatives of over forty groups have appeared before the general committee or its sub-committees.

As a result of these studies and investigations, the committee submits herewith a formal report covering briefly personnel conditions as they now exist in the city service and a suggested plan for the classification of employees and the standardization of salaries.

Respectfully,

CHARLES J. FOX, Chairman,
JOSEPH P. MANNING,
WILLIAM P. LONG,
ERNEST R. SPRINGER,

REPORT.

The service of the City of Boston, exclusive of the positions occupied by teachers and employees of the school department, comprises some 11,500 positions and involves an annual expenditure in fifty-six departments and divisions for salaries and wages of about $17,500,000. An organization of such proportions necessarily possesses inherent defects, particularly since it is a governmental organization subject to political influences. One of the great weaknesses of the city service has been the lack of centralized, co-ordinated control in the administration of personnel matters.

THE CONDITION.

Up to the present time no uniform or comprehensive employment plan has been adopted for use in the administration of personnel matters pertaining to city employees. Under the present order, individual cases are adjusted mostly as they arise, and, as a general rule, the adjustments have been made without reference to the relationships between the positions affected and the other positions that make up the service. Scales of compensation have been established for large groups like policemen, firemen, inspectors, engineers, foremen and nurses, but in each case the scale has been fixed as an individual one and little attention has been paid to its effect on or relation to rates of pay of other employees.

During the preparation and passage of the annual appropriation bill, the budget department may be termed a personnel bureau, but after the passage of the budget each department operates as an independent unit in the appointment, promotion and transfer of employees. With recommendations being made by forty department heads, acting independently and without the guidance of any comprehensive plan, it is only natural that inequalities in compensation have crept in and that dissatisfaction and confusion exists in the minds of individual employees. The policy of granting horizontal increases which has been followed in recent years has only served to perpetuate and accentuate this condition.

The lack of a comprehensive and consistent personnel policy and the absence of a central agency empowered to regulate and administer such a policy is evidenced by the following summary of irregularities to be found in the personal service of the city:

1. Salary and wage rates for positions involving like duties and responsibilities and calling for the same qualifications show wide variations and marked inequalities. Numerous examples can be found where employees in one department or division are paid a higher rate than that paid to a similar group performing the same work in another department or division.

2. Unsystematic and in many cases unjust methods for advancement and promotion. It is possible under the existing order for an employee to be advanced in pay with undue rapidity and without reference to relative merit and length of service, while no positive assurance is furnished of any increase to any employee as he or she increases his or her value through individual merit and experience.

3. Great waste of energy and time on the part of the mayor, budget commissioner, and department heads in discussing details of relatively small importance concerning personal service, without any adequate basis upon which to form proper conclusions.

4. Variations in designating the same kind of employment and a multiplicity of meaningless titles.

5. Entrance rates determined largely by the salary rates of the incumbents who previously held the positions.

THE REMEDY.

Such conditions should not be permitted to continue in the municipal service if a reasonable remedy can be found. In the opinion of the committee the removal of these irregularities can be accomplished by making use of the same expedients that are being more and more generally adopted in the management of large business enterprises,—namely, classification of positions, and standardization of salaries. Under such methods, positions are first grouped and graded, so as to bring together into the same group all positions involving work of a like character and into the same grade all positions involving responsibilities of like importance, and then uniform salary schedules are established by grades in the different groups. Thus, equal pay for work of the same grade and an equitable relationship in the rates of pay for the different groups is automatically brought about. The application of these methods to our particular problem will result in the bringing together, regardless of departmental location, those positions that involve the same or substantially similar duties, and carry with them responsibilities of the same or substantially the same degree of importance, and will permit the treating of each group as a unit in arriving at rates of compensation. Uniformity, consistency, and fairness, with respect to the salaries and wages to be paid to municipal employees should automatically be achieved under such a policy.

THE PLAN.

The general requirements that a compensation plan should meet are first, that it be in a form to permit of its practical application; second, that it be equitable in its provisions with respect to the interests of both the employees and taxpayers. The compensation plan described in the following pages is believed to meet these general requirements as satisfactorily as is possible considering the necessity of dealing with large numbers of positions and employees according to uniform rules.

The fundamental features of the plan are as follows:

1. Allocation of positions into functional groups.
2. Establishment of grades which, in the opinion of the committee, represent the various degrees of responsibility and authority in the city service.
3. Classification of employees into groups and grades in accordance with their respective duties and responsibilities.
4. Fixing of minimum and maximum compensations for each grade.

GROUPS.

For convenience in indicating positions with duties of a like nature, the employees of the city have been allocated to the following functional groups:

1. The Clerical Group, in which are placed those positions the duties of whose incumbents are to perform or direct office work requiring business ability or commercial training.

2. The Inspectional Group, in which are placed those positions the duties of whose incumbents are to observe and report on facts and conditions affecting the health and property of the residents of Boston, or on work performed or supplies purchased for the city, or to supervise such observation and reporting, so as to insure compliance with city ordinances, regulations, standards and specifications.

3. The Institutional Group, in which are placed those positions the duties of whose incumbents are to perform work incident to the maintenance and operation of hospitals, or charitable or correctional institutions.

4. The Investigational Group, in which are placed those positions the duties of whose incumbents are to collect, examine into, and interpret facts pertaining to subjects, persons or things under investigation for the purpose of securing an intelligent basis for official action.

5. The Labor Group, in which are placed those positions the duties of whose incumbents are to perform manual work not requiring skill in a recognized trade, or to supervise the performance of such work.

6. The Mechanical Group, in which are placed those positions the duties of whose incumbents are to perform manual work requiring skill in recognized trades, or to supervise the performance of such work.

7. The Police and Fire Group, covering positions in the uniformed or detective forces of the Police and Fire Departments.

8. The Professional Group, in which are placed those positions the duties of whose incumbents are to perform work which is based upon the established principles of and which requires training and experience in a recognized profession.

GRADES.

Within each group positions will be found to differ in the importance, difficulty, responsibility and value of the work performed. In order to provide for those differences the work of each group has been analyzed and divided into grades. In the following pages are indicated grades established for the different groups and under each grade is listed a limited number of position titles to typify the scope of the grade.

CLASSIFICATION OF EMPLOYEES.

In allocating employees to groups and grades the committee was guided in the main by facts and information obtained from the following sources:

1. Questionnaires on file in the budget department.
2. Consultation with department and division heads.
3. Conferences with representatives of groups of employees.

The questionnaires on file in the office of the budget department were prepared by the individual employees and give a more or less complete history or picture of the responsibilities and duties of the various positions in the city service. The essential facts disclosed in the questionnaires are as follows:

1. Rating.
2. Department or division in which duties are performed.
3. Immediate superior.
4. Brief description of duties and responsibilities.
5. Conditions surrounding employment.
6. Supervisory responsibility.
7. Miscellaneous personal data.

To check and supplement the information secured from the questionnaires, department heads, division chiefs, and individuals holding positions of supervisory nature were consulted by the committee. The ideas and suggestions of this group of officials, particularly with regard to the relative importance of positions within their jurisdiction, were given great weight by the committee in their deliberations. To ensure a full and complete expression of opinion on the part of the employees of the city, conferences were also held with representatives of various groups of workers.

In assigning positions to grades, each functional group was considered a unit. The facts and information received from the different sources mentioned above enabled the committee to determine the variations in authority, importance and responsibility of the different positions within each functional group. Each position was weighed in the light of these variations and assignments made to the grade which, in the opinion of the committee, best reflected the relative value of the position within its functional group.

SCALES OF COMPENSATION.

The aim of the committee has been to establish a general range of salaries which will be fair both to the employees and to the taxpayers. In arriving at the limits suggested below, consideration has been given to many factors, among which may be enumerated the prevailing wage for similar work in private employment, the cost of living, the qualifications required for the work, and the condition, unpleasantness or dangers involved in the work. The committee have also drawn upon their own knowledge of salary and wage rates prevailing both inside and outside of the city service.

After an intensive survey and consideration of all the factors and elements involved in the personnel service of the city, the following general salary limits are proposed for the grades previously mentioned.

| GRADE. | Minimum.          | Maximum.          |
|--------|-------------------|-------------------|
| 1..... | $3,100           | No fixed maximum. |
| 2..... | 2,600             | $3,000           |
| 3..... | 2,100             | 2,500             |
| 4..... | 1,600             | 2,000             |
| 5..... | 1,100             | 1,500             |
| 6..... | No fixed minimum. | 1,000             |

In fixing general salary limits for each grade, it is contemplated that except for those positions which have a recognized flat rate of pay, like laborers, firemen, matrons, assistant drawtenders, etc., all employees shall start at a minimum salary and proceed by step rate increases until the maximum of their position is reached. The system of graduated compensation is proposed on the assumption that over a period of years there is normally a gradual increase in the usefulness of an employee, and, therefore, a gradual development of the right to an increase in compensation as an employee becomes more familiar with and presumably more skilled in the work of his or her position. In connection with this assumption, it should be emphasized, however, that mere length of service does not, under the proposed plan, constitute a sufficient reason for the advance of an employee when there is no positive evidence to indicate that the value of the employee's service has increased. As will be pointed out in more detail in a later section of this report, salary advances under the graduated compensation plan should be made only after satisfactory evidence has been produced to show that an employee whose pay is to be advanced has attained and maintained a sufficient standard of efficiency to justify the increase.

INTERPRETATIONS AND MODIFICATIONS.

The plan of the committee to this point, comprising as it does the establishing of functional groups, the determination of grades within groups, and the fixing of salary limits by grades, is broad and general in scope. To adapt such a plan to a service involving 11,500 positions, and including all varieties and kinds of human effort, it has been necessary in a number of special instances to vary the general form so as to suit and accommodate certain types and groups of positions. These variations or modifications are briefly described in the following paragraphs:

Intermediate Maxima.—The allocation of a position to a particular grade does not of necessity mean that the incumbent of the position is automatically entitled to reach the maximum of the grade at the expiration of any definite period of time. It must be recognized that while in the general scheme a large number of positions are listed within a particular grade, it does not follow that all of these positions are entitled to the maximum of the grade. Different degrees of responsibility are to be found within each group grade, hence, these differences must be compensated for by fixing intermediate maxima within each grade. Thus, while all of the stationary engineers of the city may be allocated to Grade 3, it does not follow that all employees with this rating are entitled to the maximum of the grade. A survey of the various steam plants of the city, to determine the classification of each, as required by the state law relating to the licensing of engineers, disclosed that there are three classes of plants under operation. The committee feels that this variation in plants should be reflected in the salaries fixed for stationary engineers and has consequently established three rates of pay for stationary engineers within Grade 3. Again, while a large number of inspectors have been assigned to Grade 3, not all are considered eligible to receive the $2,500 maximum of this grade, for some $2,300 is considered a fair maximum, for others $2,200, and for still others $2,100. In other words, the nature and responsibilities of the different positions are, in the final analysis, the determining factors to be considered in fixing the salary maxima to be paid to the incumbents. For this reason, variations have been made in the general salary limits shown on page 13, wherever, in the judgment of the committee, such variations were warranted.

Entrance Salaries.— While the maximum compensation which a particular position will pay is determined directly by the grade in which the position is listed, it does not follow that the minimum compensation or starting figure is determined in a like manner. In certain groups, particularly the clerical, inspectional and investigational, it is felt that the range of compensation should be spread over two or more grades, rather than being confined to the range of the grade in which the position is listed. For example, an individual might be appointed to a clerical position which was listed in Grade 4. The appointment should in many cases be made at the minimum of Grade 5 with the understanding that step rate increases would be granted if merited until the maximum of the position is reached.

Existing Salaries.— In cases where salaries now paid are in excess of the maximum of the grade in which the position is classified, the committee recommends that existing salaries of present incumbents should be retained. This recommendation is based on the thought that the present incumbents should not be penalized because their present salaries were made possible by the absence of lack of a comprehensive and definite plan for the regulation of salaries. On the termination of the service of the present incumbents in such positions, however, the salary should be reduced to its proper level and the compensation of the new entrant should be regulated in accordance with the limits of the grade in which the position is classified.

Clerical Variations.— The clerical workers of the city may be divided into two classes,— those who are filling individual positions in which the work is more or less independent and divorced from other office positions, and second, those who are working in groups where the work is more or less similar, interdependent and correlated. In the first class the ability and efficiency of the incumbent of the position may be directly measured, but in the second class, the efficiency of the individual is more or less subordinated to the efficiency displayed by the entire group. As a general rule, group efficiency should improve as the average tenure of service of the members of the group increases. Where efficiency and ability may be directly measured, the committee feels that advancement in pay should depend solely upon efficiency, but where efficiency must be measured in terms of a group, there should be added to the efficiency displayed by the individual member of the group a service requirement. The following plan is suggested for the handling of these variations in the clerical group.

In Grades 2, 3 and 4 of the clerical group, intermediate maxima shall be fixed at $200 below the maximum of each grade. Thus, in Grade 2, an intermediate maximum shall be established at $2,800; Grade 3, $2,300; and Grade 4, $1,800. The individual positions in each grade shall be classified as Class A and the group positions as Class B. Incumbents of positions rated in Class A are eligible for consideration to proceed directly from the minimum of the position to the maximum of the grade by step rate increases of $100. Incumbents of positions in Class B are eligible for consideration to proceed from the minimum of the position to the intermediate maximum, previously stated, by $100 annual increases. Having reached the intermediate maximum of a grade, further progress will be possible only after certain service requirements are fulfilled. Employees in Grade 4, Class B, having reached the intermediate maximum of $1,800 will be entitled to consideration for a further increase of $100, provided their length of service with the city is in excess of twelve years, and they will be entitled to consideration for a second additional $100, provided their length of service is in excess of fifteen years. Thus an employee in Grade 4, Class B, with fifteen years of service or more is entitled to be considered for the same salary privileges as though his position had been classified as Class A. In Grade 3, seventeen years of service will be required before the employee is entitled to consideration to proceed $100 beyond the intermediate maximum and twenty years of service will be required before consideration for the second additional $100 will be allowed. In Grade 2, the periods of service have been set as twenty-two and twenty-five years, respectively. The term length of service as herein used is meant to include the total number of continuous years spent in the city service rather than the number of years spent in the present position.

Tenure of Service Recognition.—Because of the relatively low maximum fixed for positions in Grade 5, it is felt that some recognition should be made in this group of tenure of service. It is, therefore, recommended that a bonus payment of $100 be allowed over and above the fixed maximum of the grade for meritorious service in excess of twenty years. Under this recommendation an employee in Grade 5 having served continuously for twenty years shall be entitled to consideration for an additional $100 beyond the maximum of the grade.

Rules.—In the administration of this plan, certain rules must be adopted. A complete set of rules cannot be determined in advance, but at this time it appears that the following should be recognized:

1. Salary advancement within a grade shall be limited to one increase a year.

2. Advancement shall be approved by the mayor upon recommendation of the department head that the employee concerned merits the advancement and upon certification by the personnel bureau (hereinafter explained) that the advancement recommended is in accordance with the classification and standardization plan.

3. All increases with the exception of those resulting from promotions within the service shall become effective on the pay roll date nearest to June 1 in each year.

4. An employee who is transferred or promoted to a position which has been classified in a grade higher than that of his old position shall be appointed at the minimum salary attached to the new position. If the employee is receiving more than this minimum no change shall be made except by specific recommendation of the head of the department.

5. An employee who has reached the maximum salary prescribed for the grade in which his position is classified shall not be increased while serving in the same position.

6. An employee receiving less than the amount established as the minimum of his or her position shall be eligible for consideration to proceed forthwith to such minimum, provided, however, that no increase under this rule shall be in excess of $300 in any one year.

7. An employee whose present compensation is within the salary limits fixed for the position shall be eligible for consideration to receive the standard rate of increase.

8. With the exception of those positions classified as Grade 1, the standard rate of increase for employees on an annual salary basis shall be $100 and for per diem employees not in excess of 50 cents per day.

9. In the event that an employee or new appointee has special experience that peculiarly fits him for a particular position, department heads will be privileged to recommend that appointment be made at a salary rate above the minimum fixed for the position.

OVERTIME.

The practice which has developed in several departments in recent years of paying "annual salary" employees overtime, because of the fact that at certain limited times in the year such employees are called upon to work beyond regular office hours, is a serious breach of the fundamental provisions underlying the employment of this class of employees. In hiring employees to work on an "annual salary" basis, the city enters into an unwritten contract in which it agrees to pay for a full year's work a fixed amount of money. While for pay roll purposes this fixed amount may be divided into weekly or monthly installments, it does not necessarily follow that the amount of any one of these installments is an exact measure of the work performed during the period covered by the installment. The unit of measure in the case of an "annual salary" employee is a year's work. In other words, an "annual salary" employee is not hired to perform a specific amount of work in any one day, one week, or one month, but rather is employed to perform a specific task in the period of one year.

In accomplishing this specific task, the employee may be called upon to exert extra effort and work extra hours at certain times during the year. Under such conditions, however, the employee is no more entitled to claim extra compensation for this extra effort and work than the city would be to claim that the employee's compensation should be reduced at those periods when the duties and responsibilities of the specific task may slack off. The committee is of the opinion that the payment of overtime to "annual salary" employees should be discontinued and suggests that the compensation of those groups of employees who may as a regular feature of their year's work be called upon to work at certain times beyond regular office hours be fixed at a figure which will compensate for the discontinuance of this source of additional income. In classifying ward clerks, deputy collectors, assistant registrars, foremen, inspectors, etc., the committee has literally carried out this suggestion so that part of the compensation fixed for these groups may be said to be in lieu of overtime.

NUMBER OF EMPLOYEES.

The committee has not attempted to determine whether the number of employees on the city and county pay rolls is more or less than is required for efficient service. The fair determination of this question would require a detailed and exhaustive study of the organization and management of the various departments over a considerable period of time by impartial investigators familiar with the work and service required of the departments, and such a study seemed to be beyond the scope of the committee's authority.

RESPONSIBILITY OF DEPARTMENT HEADS.

The charter under which the city functions places full and complete responsibility for the operation and management of the various city departments upon the officials appointed to head such departments. The classification and standardization plan herein proposed is not intended in any sense to deprive or relieve department heads of this authority and responsibility. In the minds of the committee, the proposed plan is to serve as a chart or map to guide department heads in making recommendations affecting employees under their supervision. Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the fact that under the proposed plan advancement from one salary rate to another cannot be made without the recommendation of the head of the department or division having immediate jurisdiction. In making such recommendations the particular classification of individual employees arrived at by the committee responsible for this report should be tempered by department heads in the light of the faithfulness and efficiency displayed by their employees.

The classification herein proposed has been based primarily on the duties and responsibilities of the various positions. Consideration of the efficiency and ability of individual employees has purposely been avoided. The salary limits fixed for the different grades are, in the opinion of the committee, fair to the employees of the city. Obviously, the same limits can only be fair to the taxpayers (our employers) if the employees give in return a fair day's work. Department heads in making salary advancement recommendations should not lose sight of this axiom.

The success or failure of the proposed plan will depend in the main on the manner in which department heads assume the responsibility which is legally and rightfully theirs. If department heads are content to follow the line of least resistance and regard the salary advancement of their employees as an automatic affair, then the chances of the proposed plan being an improvement over present conditions are remote. If, however, each department head will conscientiously base his recommendations under this plan on the merit and efficiency displayed by the employees under his supervision, there should be no question as to the success of the plan.

MERIT SYSTEM.

The committee has given some consideration to the thought of recommending the establishment of a general merit system within the city service. There is the danger, however, that such a proposal at this time would complicate and possibly injure the chances of the successful operation of the classification and standardization plan. For this reason the committee is content to suggest to the various department heads that in so far as it is practicable written records should be maintained within departments to indicate the relative efficiency of individual employees. Among other things, such records should indicate the following:

1. Conduct in dealing with the public.
2. Attendance record.
3. General attitude towards fellow workers and superiors.
4. Quantity and quality of work performed.
5. Capacity to perform duties of a higher grade.

The establishment and maintenance of such a system of records within departments would not only prove of great value to department heads but would also enhance the possibility of the success of the classification and standardization plan proposed in this report.

BOARD OF ADJUSTMENT AND REVIEW.

The classification and standardization plans herein proposed should be looked upon as a starting point and not as a finished or final product to be thought of as unchangeable. In allocating positions to grades, the committee tried to exercise impartial judgment, but realizes that its particular judgment in certain cases may be questioned. In order to harmonize these differences in opinion it is considered desirable that provisions for a court of appeal be included in the general plan of the committee. It is therefore suggested that within three months after the acceptance of this report a board of adjustment and review be appointed by the mayor. The functions of such a board would be to pass on all grievances formally presented by employees, classify all new positions, adjust salary levels in accordance with any marked economic disturbance, and in general to keep the entire plan up to date.

PERSONNEL BUREAU.

It is obvious that if the prime requirements of uniformity and relative equity in the pay of city employees are to be secured some central agency must have the authority to adopt a proper classification system and must be fully empowered to administer the same. It is therefore recommended that the budget department be authorized to adopt the plan proposed in this report and further that it be delegated the necessary power to administer the same. This delegation can be accomplished by the issuance of an executive order requiring that all matters pertaining to the employment, promotion, transfer and salary increase of employees under the control of the mayor be reviewed by the budget department prior to receiving the necessary executive approval.

The issuance of such an order would in effect establish the budget department as the personnel bureau of the city. In such a bureau, a card record system covering every position and employee in the city service would naturally be established. All conditions affecting department pay rolls would be immediately reported to this bureau. All vacancies occurring within departmental forces would be referred to the bureau to consider and report whether the position should be continued, consolidated or abolished. Vacancies occurring in the higher grades of the service would be filled whenever possible by promotion and transfer within the existing service. In this manner practically all new entrants into the city service would start at the bottom. Proposals to make material changes in the duties of particular positions would be reviewed by the bureau. In short, a central clearing house for the adjustment of personnel matters would be established for the purpose of furnishing the chief executive of the city with all the necessary information and essential facts which should be in his possession before he is called upon to approve personal service recommendations of department heads.

CONCLUSION.

The classification plan presented in this report represents a conscientious attempt to appraise positions on a relative basis according to the best available facts and information. It is felt that if the proposed plan is given a fair trial two worth while results will ensue. In the long run economy in administration should be attained since many employees, owing to the absence of any comprehensive plan and to the lack of complete information concerning their duties, succeed in securing more pay than their services are really worth. Better public service should also be secured because an equitable wage scale naturally produces a contented worker, secure in the knowledge that his or her progress depends upon ability and efficient service.
